ABORIGINAL GOVERNANCE: EMERGING DIRECTIONS

In this course there are 4 major themes that we are studying to learn about Aboriginal governance in Canada in terms of the past, present and future. They are...

1. Identity
 2. Sovereignty
 3. Relationships
 4. Challenges

For this presentation we watched 8th Fire:
“Indigenous in the City”
& “The Land”
looking for connections to those 4 major themes

We had some questions we were looking for answers to

IDENTITY ?s

“Indigenous in the City”

- Historically, what factors have negatively affected First Nations peoples, Métis & Inuit sense of cultural identity and how are these groups reaffirming (or not) cultural identity today?

IDENTITY ?s

“The Land”

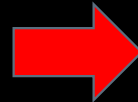

- How is the idea of self-governance grounded in First Nations peoples, Métis & Inuit beliefs, values and traditional forms of government?

SOVEREIGNTY ?s

“The Land”

- What are First Nations peoples, Métis & Inuit views about self-governance?
- Are there specific examples of self-governance?

RELATIONSHIP ?s “Indigenous in the City”

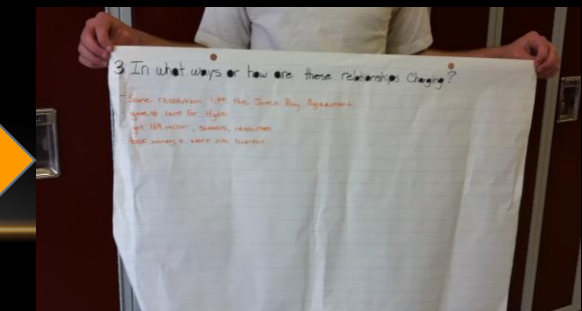

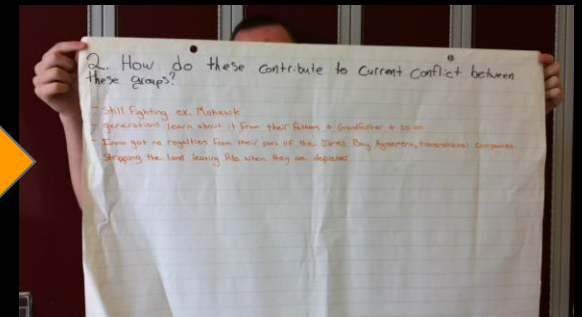

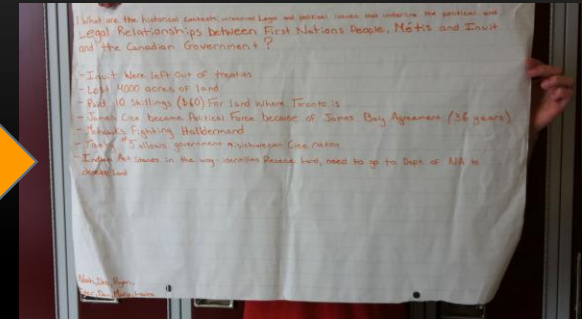

- What are the historical contexts & unresolved social and political issues that underlie the relationships between First Nations people, Métis and Inuit, the Canadian government & Canada as a whole?
- How do these contribute to current conflict between these groups and in what ways or how are these relationships changing?

RELATIONSHIP ?s

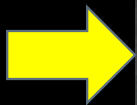

“The Land”

- What are the historical contexts, unresolved legal and political issues that underlie the relationships between First Nations people, Métis and Inuit & the Canadian government?
- How do these contribute to current conflict between these groups?
- In what ways or how are these relationships changing?

CHALLENGES ?s “Indigenous in the City”

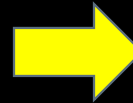

- What are some of the major challenges affecting First Nations peoples, Métis and Inuit today?
- In what ways are First Nations peoples, Métis and Inuit showing resourcefulness, creativity and commitment to addressing the needs of their communities?

CHALLENGES ?s

“The Land”

- What are some of the major challenges affecting First Nations peoples, Métis and Inuit today?

- In what ways are First Nations peoples, Métis and Inuit showing resourcefulness, creativity and commitment to addressing the needs of their communities?

As an Anishnaabe journalist, how do you feel about the current state of Canadian society when it comes to its relationships with First Nations peoples including the issues of sovereignty & identity?

Plus we had a question of our own...
